Clifford W. Burton. Bright yellow,	.15	1.25	10

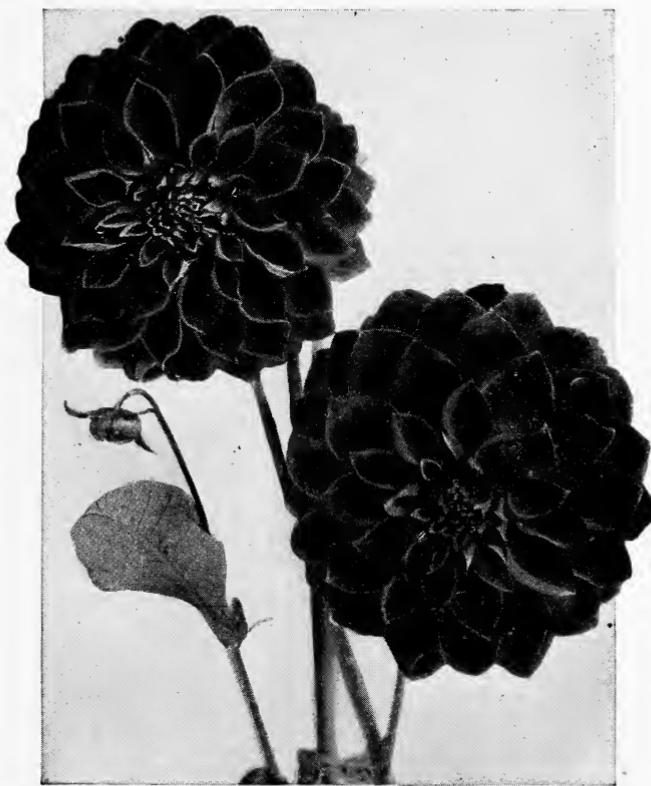

Divisions.	Price per
Each	Doz.	100

Darlene. (Alexander's New Decorative Seedling.) In this new seedling I have the most promising florist's Dahlia to my knowledge. In fact, a Dahlia far better than Delice, Sylvia or Nymphaea as a cut-flower, but possessing the shape and ability to stand shipping that the popular "Delice" possesses. "Darlene" has been the first Dahlia in my fields to blossom for the past four years, therefore proves to be very early; it has long stiff, wiry stems, producing the flowers upright, and with a stemlength better than any of the above three varieties. In co'or, it is an exquisite shade of live shell-pink, with a dainty blending of white at the center. It is a steady and continuous-blossoming Dahlia, and is unquestionably the finest pink and white Decorative Dahlia to date,

Delice. Bright pink, suffused with lavender pink,

Dr. Thurman. (New.) An exquisite combination of clear yellow and copper tints. A free bloomer with long stems,

MINA BURGLE—Decorative Dahlia (See page 6)

Elsie Davidson. Beautiful deep golden yellow, very large, .15 1.50 10

Frank A. Walker. (Alexander's New Decorative Seedling.) A charming shade of deep lavender pink. For garden decoration, or for cut flowers this variety is especially good, having good stems and producing flowers in great abundance,

Francis Martin. (New.) One of the most charming decoratives. Lavender, blending to white at center. Very delicate,
